

Flow Sensors in the City's Stormwater Cycle

The City's rain gauges measure the liquid precipitation that falls within the city and are mounted on several City facilities. The City's stormwater flow sensors are located throughout the City's storm network, while the stormwater level sensors are located along Bear River to monitor the changing river levels

